Why another Lookbook?

The Design News Now Lookbook was created with a simple premise: editorial selection should be driven by merit. While market guides, product roundups, and trend reports are plentiful, truly independent curation remains surprisingly rare.

Addison Ross

The result is the Design News Now Atlanta Market Lookbook: a small, but importantly, editorially curated guide to help you discover what's new, navigate with purpose and make the most of your market experience.

Whether you're sourcing product or seeking inspiration we hope this guide becomes a valuable companion.

Brunschwig & Fils

Every product featured in this Atlanta Market edition has been chosen solely for its design, innovation, craftsmanship, materiality and market relevance. There are no paid placements, sponsored inclusions or advertising-driven selections—just a thoughtful edit of the introductions, collections and standout products we believe deserve your attention.

The same philosophy extends to our programming coverage. We've focused on the events and conversations shaping the industry right now.
